When you
"heal"
the Spirit
the body will follow.

In the quantum world that we live in, all possibilities and all potentials exist simultaneously.

Kathy and I had been doing numerous "Energy Healing" workshops across North America. The focus seemed to always be on "healing" for the body and yet somehow there seemed to be a missing piece.

One night just before falling asleep the following words were given to me:

"Recognize that the journey of the spirit is more important than the journey of the body."

Well you can bet that had my attention! Where had those words come from, and more importantly, what did they mean? I pondered this for some time.

What the words mean is that the spirit is much more important than the body.

The focus of all healing modalities both alternative and allopathic is for the most part focussed on healing the dis-ease of the body. While this no doubt has some shorter term benefits, many conditions are recurrent. Why do they present themselves over and over? Why is relief only short term? When this happens I believe that the root cause is dis-ease of the spirit. When the spirit is not healed, the condition manifests itself in the physical, and if we only treat the physical symptom and not the root cause it will return.

"Not everyone can be cured, but everyone can be healed"

-Rufus Goodstriker

These words are part of a discussion about healing with the late Elder Rufus Goodstriker. In his world view, curing was about the body and healing was about the Spirit.

By now you're asking yourself "What is Quantum Spirit Healing?" Well, in its most simple terms it is about using life force energy as well as sacred sound to change the dis-ease of the Spirit to a state of ease. It is using your intent coupled with the Spirit Connection we have with "All Our Relations" to effect lasting, positive changes in the Spirit of our client. It is about living a life without limits.
